STATIO PER LINEAM VALLI DECIMA SEXTA
(Drumburgh).

Accedit Glasson.

Quamquam a Dykesfield (v. cap. LVI) ad Drumburgh (sive Drumbugh, ut voluit Hodgson 2, 3 p. 223 ss.) valli vestigia incerta sunt propter litoris plani et arenosi naturam (videtur autem per Bousteadhill et Easton vicos eo pervenisse), tamen dubitari nequit quin hoc loco castra ad vallum fuerint (cf. Goughs Camden 3 p. 425. 440; Maclauchlan memoir p. 85; Bruce wall p. 301), quibus secundum notitiae seriem fortasse tribuere licet nomen Tunnoceli. Tituli vero perpauci iique exilis argumenti inde prodierunt a BRANDIO descripti partim (n. 946. 947), partim ab A. W. FRANKS et BRUCIO (n. 948. 948a); servantur hi cum aliis aliunde collectis (unde alterius origo incerta est) in Lowther castle.

Addidi titulum singularem, qui repertus est in Glasson vico a Drumburgh versus occidentum sito (n. 946); sed servatur in Bowness.

946 A centurial stone was found, not long ago, at Glassen [s. Glasson], a mile west of Drumburgh. I saw it at Boulness Oct. 4th, 1783 BRAND. Bowness, built upside down into the wall of a lane, leading to the church BRUCE.

1 AVG Bruce.

947 From Drumburgh I brought away a curious lettered stone found there, and which the owner of the house, where it was built up, with great politeness suffered to be taken out of the wall of it; it is of red colour BRAND. Illud exemplum extare in Newcastle in museo falsoque tribui Conderco (supra n. 524) opinio est Brucii. Alterum servatur in Lowther castle FRANKS.

Lapis longus ped. 1 dig. 5, altus ped. 1 dig. 1. Litterae sunt rudes et singulis punctis inter se iunctis constant, ut lapidinarum supra n. 912. 913.

Drumburgh. I saw (Oct. 6, 1783) a Roman altar, but without any inscription remaining, built up in the garden wall of Sir James Lowther's castle there. — I was informed that a remarkable lettered stone had been found there, in the garden of Sir James Lowther (now Lord Lonsdale) and removed to Lowther Hall.

LVIII. GLANNIBANTA?,
STATIO PER LINEAM VALLI DECIMA SEPTIMA
(Bowness).

Accedit Port Carlisle.

A Bowness (olim Boulness), quam ultimam valli stationem esse dudum intellectum est (cf. Goughs Camden p. 425. 441; Hodgson 2, 3 p. 225 ss.; Maclauchlan memoir p. 87; Bruce wall p. 303), Ricardus BAINBRIGG iter suum vallense incepit (cod. mus. Brit. Cotton Iulius F. VI f. 300: I began mi iorney the XVth daie of August 1601 at the towne of Bulnes) ibique descripsit miliarium infra proponendum. Tituli reliqui ibi reperti non multi partim per editores HUTCHINSONIS innotuerunt (n. 949. 951. 952), a CLERK Scoto descripti, partim per BRANDIUM et LYSONS (n. 949) et per HODGSONEM et BRUCIUM (n. 949. 939 a. 950). Cohortem incertam (n. 949) et legionem sextam memorant (n. 951). Reliqui sunt argumenti privati; alter eorum servatur hodie in Port Carlisle, qui vicus est ad portum situs hodie non infrequens; sed potest repertus esse in ipso Bowness.

De rationibus, quibus adducimur ut seriem stationum per lineam valli dispositarum, quam notitia exhibet, desinere existimemus in Glannibanta, videatur praefatio ad vallum (supra p. 104).
